

Experts Will Refute Experts

Four Aliens Who Testified Leopold and Loeb Were Abnormal to Be Contradicted by Four Experts for the State.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Aug. 11.—The battle of the alienists in the Leopold-Loeb trial, a battle that has exceeded even the sanguinary conflict of medical testimony in the Thaw trial, is becoming more and more complicated as the time approaches when Judge John R. Caverly is to decide whether "Babe" and "Dicky" are to hang or merely go to prison for life for the murder of 14 year old Bobby Franks. The lawyers who are trying to save the necks of the blithe young collegians have put on the witness stand four psychiatrists of national renown to swear the boys are mentally diseased, pathologically unsound, and queer since childhood. The state's lawyers, who are trying to send the youths to the gallows, will confound the testimony of the four defense alienists with the conclusions of four other alienists, scarcely less known than the defense quartet. Perhaps late today, but more probably tomorrow, the state will begin putting into the record the conclusions of its doctors that both Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, while depraved young men, are sane and sound under the law, and "as such are eligible candidates for the noose. Then the defense will bring up its reserve strength of scientific testimony to confound the testimony of the state's experts.

The defense considers that it has an "ace" in the hole in this counter offensive. It consists of a text book on mental disorders, "insanity and the law," written by Dr. William O. Krohn and Dr. Harold O. Singer, two of the state's alienists, in which the defense contends, Doctors Krohn and Singer described as mentally inferior just such persons as Nathan Leopold and Dicky Loeb, the defense lawyers are planning to quote the words of Dr. Krohn and Dr. Singer to them on the stand, if they testify that the boys are sane and responsible.

A new scientific phrase was tossed into the battle of words and terms today. It is "psychopathic inferiority." That is what Dr. James Whitney Hall, another of the defense alienists, termed, the young lawyers. His colleagues heretofore have described them as "mentally diseased," "mentally unsound," "vicious," "disordered personalities," "phantasy worshippers," "dream children," "emotional infants," and "paranoids." Dr. Hall's findings are resembling in the main those of the other defense alienists, differing somewhat as to phraseology.

"My finds are," he reported, "that the boys, Leopold and Loeb, are psychopathic inferiors; they have emotional defects, and, defective judgment is only relatively responsible for their acts."

"Psychopathic inferiority" is a condition referred to by various writers as moral insanity, impulsive insanity, moral imbecility, moral deficiency, etc.

It is at this juncture in his report that Dr. Hall will, if given the opportunity, quote the Krohn-Singer book in substantiation of his findings, thus stealing some of the state's thunder.

Both Leopold and Loeb, Dr. Hall found "unfit for any part in society as both are entirely anti-social and unsocial in all their conclusions." "They would not be satisfied in Heaven and they probably would wreck hell," he said. "They are shape with sails but no anchors."

"Angel face Dicky" calmly confessed, Dr. Hall sets forth, that he would have no particular compunction about perpetrating the Franks crime all over again "if he could get any kick out of it." Only, the next time, he told Hall, he would make certain there were no slips, such as the loss of Nathan Leopold's glasses, to trip it all up.

"Loeb is an infantile adult," Dr. Hall found. He has highly emotional reactions, no philosophy, and simply commits crime because he wants to. He is so highly anti-social that he is a dangerous man."

"Leopold, on the contrary, has a definite philosophy, based entirely on an ego-centric center. Highly intellectual with ideas of his own greatness and importance, these ideas carry him away and apart from his fellow men."

Leopold said, for instance, Dr. Hall reported, that entirely too much fuss had been made about the killing of Bobby Franks.

"The killing of Franks made no difference in the community, he was only of three million people," Nathan told the alienist.

"He said if he were to kill a multitude of people it might make some difference in the community, but killing one or a dozen in a large, dense populated community it did not affect society." Society in Chicago, he said, functioned just as well the day after the crime as it did the day before."

Cross-examination of Dr. H. S. Hubert, the fourth alienist, was expected to take up most of today's session of the trial.

Runs to Seek Treaty.

Riga, Aug. 11.—Soviet Russia will shortly make representations to the French Socialist government for a treaty conference similar to the Anglo-Russian conference just concluded in London, according to word from Moscow today.

Dawes Plan Nears Adoption

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 11.—With Premier Herriot back in London with his cabinet's approval to settle the issue of Ruhr evacuation on the basis of the Dawes plan requirements, without regard to French frontier security, negotiations were resumed today in the reparations conference amid growing optimism.

The Americans and other delegates believe that the parity should speedily wind up with a final agreement signed by Friday. Evacuation of the Ruhr was the biggest obstacle, but apparently it has been surmounted in a way satisfactory to all, including the Germans. The big question in the minds of the allied delegates was the attitude the French cabinet might take on the Ruhr issue. Disarmament of Germany and military control probably will be vested in the League of Nations.

Now that France has made important concessions on the Ruhr question—the most far reaching concessions made by the French since the signing of the Versailles treaty—the Germans are expected to give in on the issue of reparation payments in kind.

The French are insistent that an international conference be arranged to deal with the Allied war debts. The suggestion is made that this conference be held in November after the American presidential election when it may be possible for the United States to participate.

But London opinion is that the conference "is up in the air," and may not be arranged at all, owing to American and British opposition.

After an all night session conference committee number three completed its report on transfer of reparations from Germany to the Allies at 4 a. m.

Forest Fires Greatly Reduced

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Aug. 11.—A summary of the reports of forest fires of 1924 received at the office of the conservation commission up to July 20th, has just been made. This represents in a normal year about half the total fire season.

There have been reported up to date in the fire towns 198 fires as against a total of 556 fires for the whole 1923 season. In the fire districts in 1924 there have been reported 212 fires, as against the total of 236 fires reported for the entire season of 1923.

The area burned in the first half of 1924 in the fire towns has been 1,624 acres as against a total for 1923 of 17,855 acres. In the fire districts in 1924 up to date the acreage has been 20,862 acres as against the total of 30,063 for 1923. Damage and expense have been roughly proportioned to the number of fires and the area burned.

The deduction to be drawn from these figures is that the spring season has been exceptionally favorable to forest protection in the fire towns of the Adirondack and Catskill regions, although the danger has been greater in the fire districts outside the mountain areas.

The average acreage per fire for the fire towns so far this year is 8.2. If this average can be maintained through the year, it will constitute a new record.

Lynchers Pursue Negro.

Jenkins is charged with slaying W. A. Harvey, well known Vicksburg resident.

Miss Chipp's New Book.

The book review section of the New York Sunday Tribune carried a lengthy review of Miss Elmore Chipp's latest novel, "Many Waters," which has just been published by D. Appleton & Company. Miss Chipp is the daughter of Attorney Howard Chipp of this city.

Robert Case Drowned Sunday

Out Canoeing on Hudson. Sunday Afternoon When He Throwing Case and Ear Into Water—Case Started for Shore.

Robert Case, 20 years of age, of George M. Case of No. 1, dorf street, was drowned Sunday afternoon on the Hudson river off Port E. The canoe he was in was upset and he was unable to swim. He was found by a party of men who were out canoeing today.

Sunday afternoon Case Lane, Harry duBois Frey Hutton met at the Rone Club, of which they were and decided to spend the day on the water. Case and Hutton were in one canoe and Frey in the other.

They were slowly drifting with the canoe and Hutton about five ft. in the lead. Suddenly Frey heard a shout and that the other canoe had started paddling back to them.

They saw that McLane was to the upset canoe and who could swim, had started for the shore several hundred feet distant.

Frey and Hutton had about caught up to the swimming youth when he suddenly sank from sight.

After vainly trying to locate him they picked up McLane and towed the upset canoe to shore. By this time a crowd had gathered and every effort was made to locate the body of Case.

There was a heavy wind blowing, which preceded the electrical storm that swept over the vicinity, and the water was very rough. It is thought that the canoe was caught sideways in the heavy wash and upset when struck by a wave.

As the canoe upset McLane advised Case to cling to it but the latter said it was only a short distance to shore and he would swim for it.

The young man was very popular. He was a member of the 1922 graduating class of the Kingston high school. While attending high school he was a member of the baseball team and captain of the football eleven. He was also junior counselor of the Order of the DeMolay, and was a member of the office force of the North River Coal Company on Thomas street.

SHORT SAID WIFE HAD BED AND SUIT.

The family troubles of Harry Short and his wife, Rose, had an airing in police court this morning when Harry was arraigned before Judge Schirlick on a charge of non-support lodged against him by his wife, who resides at 528 Broadway.

Mrs. Short, who is a young woman, said she was in delicate health and unable to work and that her husband had not supported her in several months. The court directed that he pay her $6 a week and the first payment was made in court this morning.

It developed that the Shorts have been closeted with Judge Schirlick several times in his private office and that Short had agreed to pay his wife $6 a week. He claimed today that why he did not was because his wife was keeping back from him a suit of clothes belonging to his father, who is dead. He said his wife also kept his bed.

It developed that Rose's mother, Mrs. Stewart, was keeping the suit because Harry had not paid her board. It was finally decided that Harry was to obtain the suit.

Judge Schirlick held the case open to see if Short continued his weekly payments.

Both of these later muskets have the original bayonets attached.

Bars Trip Of U. S. Flyers

By Telegram to The Freeman.
On board U. S. Cruiser Richmond, Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 11.—(wireless)—The U. S. Cruiser Raleigh, which is off Angmagssalik, Greenland, today investigating ice conditions will steam southward in day or two to look for a landing place at Cape Farewell unless it is deemed possible to break through the ice field further north.

Lieutenant Lowell Smith and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, the two remaining "round-the-world" pilots of the original four that started from Los Angeles nearly five months ago, were waiting developments as to whether they could under the circumstances.

The flyers were disappointed to learn from the Raleigh that the coal supply of the Danish steamship Gertrud Rask has begun to run low. The Gertrud Rask, which has been trying to break through the ice at Angmagssalik to establish a supply base for the Americans, needs about 150 tons of fuel. She cannot be supplied by the Raleigh which is an oil burner.

Caught in a heavy ice tow, the Gertrud Rask has been carried 75 miles from Angmagssalik in a southerly direction, but expects to be in the open sea again tomorrow. The Raleigh did not encounter any ice off Angmagssalik until she was about 80 miles from the port. She reported, however, that the weather grew very cold as Angmagssalik was approached.

Unless the Gertrud Rask can be refueled it likely will be impossible to break through the ice, as it is improbable that another ice breaker can be sent to the scene before fresh ice gathers.

Neighbors confirmed Mrs. McMullen's story that she had often been beaten by her husband. Mrs. McMullen told police her husband came home and complained of weakness from a stab wound received in a street fight.

Irwin Steam Roller In Good Working Order

It Flattens Out Mr. Coughlin and His Resolution and Appeal on Its First Trip and Is Ready For More—Meal Tickets Handed Out to All.

The Democratic county convention met at the Kingston Opera House today and during a thirty-five minute morning session managed to get as far as the distribution of dinner tickets to those entitled to them and the appointment of a committee on credentials—an important adjunct of every Democratic convention—and a committee on resolutions.

County Chairman Roscoe Irwin refused to entertain a motion offered by Thomas F. Coughlin to appoint a different resolutions committee than the committee already named, and that, together with failure to establish a new record as was done by the Republican county convention last week in opening the proceedings with prayer, and further failure to appoint a frisking committee to examine delegates for resolutions and similar weapons constituted the business of the morning session.

The convention, which follows the custom maintained uninterruptedly by the Republican party of Ulster county of holding a duly elected delegates' gathering in conjunction with the direct primary and other laws, was called to order by County Chairman Irwin at 11:20 o'clock, and the temporary roll as prepared by Secretary Henry E. McKenzie from credentials filed from the various election districts of the city and county was read by Mr. McKenzie. Isador Sampson acted as checker.

Feed All Alike.

The first district of the Second Ward of Kingston city sent two sets of delegates to the convention. One set was composed of John A. Nock, John J. White, Jr., and Joseph S. Pessanar, and it was stated their credentials had been filed with the secretary first. The other delegation which was announced to have filed contesting credentials was composed of William Powers, Michael Fitzgerald and Joseph C. Hurley. Chairman Irwin directed that dinner tickets be issued to both sets of delegates.

"Feed them first and let them fight it out afterward," he announced. All looked pleased.

The dinner tickets were issued on the Eagle Hotel, Stuyvesant Hotel and McCabe's restaurant. Each ticket contained on the back the name of the hotel or restaurant where it was to be presented.

There were three dinner tickets in an envelope, and the envelope also contained the name of the hotel where the tickets would be honored.

The result of this plan insured the reassembling of all the delegates at the afternoon session without fear, favor, reward or hope thereof, but well fed and fully capable of producing results at the hands of any frisking committee that might be deemed necessary as the convention progressed.

The Absentees.

The envelopes containing dinner tickets intended for the delegates from Esopus, first and fourth districts; Plattekill, second district; Shawangunk, first district; Ulster, fourth district; Wawarsing, first, second, seventh, eighth and ninth districts; Twelfth ward of Kingston city, second district, were not handed out because there was nobody present authorized to get them.

"Oil" Raises its Hideous Head.

The convention had its first thrill—and it wasn't much of a thrill, at that—when Secretary McKenzie called:

"Town of Ulster, fourth district," together with the names of the duly elected delegates, who were headed by State Road Contractor Henry McNamee.

There was no response.

"I suppose he's busy putting oil on the road," commented Secretary McKenzie.

Some of the delegates looked pained at this reference to oil, but nobody said anything, and the thrills died as soon as it was born. For an instant some of the delegates looked thoughtful as they seemed to be recalling famous skidding accidents caused by oil.

The Committees.

As soon as the distribution of dinner tickets was indicated by the ending of the roll call, Chairman Irwin announced that anybody having any resolution to offer must present it to the secretary before adjournment for dinner, so as to give the resolutions committee an opportunity to examine the resolution and report at the afternoon session and not interfere with the regular order of business.

The following committees were thereupon announced by Chairman Irwin: Credentials—J. Joseph McGrath of Phoenix, Robert J. Browning, Daniel P. Fitzsimmons. Resolutions—Isidor Sampson of Kingston, Harry Palen, George N. Lefevre. The Chairman's Prerogative.

man Irwin declared such procedure was out of order.

Mr. Coughlin inquired why committees should be appointed until the convention was organized, and Chairman Irwin announced that it was necessary to appoint a committee on credentials in order to know who was entitled to sit in the convention, and the reason for appointing a resolutions committee had been explained already.

Mr. Coughlin moved that the resolutions committee consist of William Johnston of Saugerties, Lucullus E. Dunne of Kingston and Daniel Shaw of New Paltz.

Chairman Irwin announced that the motion was out of order and the appointment of the resolutions committee rested with the chairman.

Mr. Coughlin appealed from the decision of the chair and a delegate seconded his motion to appoint the committee he had named, but Chairman Irwin announced that the convention had voted to adjourn until 2 o'clock. He reminded delegates to present their dinner tickets at the right hotel or restaurant and to be on time in reassembling at 2 o'clock.

The convention reassembled at 2:05 and James A. Hamilton, secretary of state of the state of New York, was introduced. Mr. Hamilton is an amiable old gentleman of paternal manner and he proceeded to tell the delegates all about oil and other things at considerable length.

At the end of Secretary Hamilton's speech the report of the credentials committee was presented.

Thomas F. Coughlin demanded a roll call on the adoption of the report.

Chairman Irwin ruled Mr. Coughlin's demand out of order.

Delegates yelled loudly for a roll call.

Chairman Irwin appointed Joseph S. Pessanar to command a squadron to restore order.

Mr. Pessanar, one of the Second Ward delegates whose seat was contested.

Order was restored.

The convention then adopted resolutions endorsing Davis and Bryan.

HUGE SHORTAGES IN GILPATRIC'S ACCOUNTS.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Putnam, Conn., Aug. 11.—Blind as a result of his attempt to commit suicide by shooting himself in the head but still fighting for life, G. Harold Gilpatrick, treasurer of the state of Connecticut, is the center about which stories of huge shortages in funds are clustered today.

Federal bank examiners this morning resumed their study of books of the First National Bank of Putnam, of which Gilpatrick is cashier, summoning directors of the bank to meet with them this afternoon when it is expected the definite statement of the bank's condition will be revealed. Until that is done stories of shortage have no real foundation.

Search is being made today for Gilpatrick's accountings in two estates of which he is trustee. These total $125,000, the figures being the only definite ones that can be applied to Gilpatrick's affairs as matters now stand.

Employment Declines Further

Factory Employment in State
July Shows a Further Falling
—Clothing and Textile and Metal
Laid Downward Trend.

By Telegram to The Freeman. HOOVER, Albany, Aug. 11.—Factory employment in New York state in July continued in the direction it has followed for the last four months—definite downward trend. The overall decline was led by clothing, textile and metals on one hand and the metals on the other. In July the clothing and textile industries lost 1,000 jobs, while the metals industry lost 1,500 jobs. The total loss was 2,500 jobs.
The falling off in employment from June to July was between 1 and 4 per cent. This makes a reduction of over 14 per cent during the course of the industrial recession that set in in April. Last year factory employment in New York state went down less than one per cent in July. The seasonal factor, the usual swing-up of industrial operations in the summer months, is negligible in comparison with the decline due to market conditions.

The fruit packing plants and the canneries took on the usual quota of workers, mostly women, for the busy summer season. The cement mills expanded operations and the brick yards held to the high level. Almost every other industry had smaller forces.

One-third of the workers were employed in the cotton mills. June were let go before July. This reduction followed a series of reductions which have been going on for a year. The number of workers in the cotton mills of this state is now less than half as great as it was in the spring of 1923. The knitting, silk, woolen and carpet industries and practically all branches of the clothing trades reduced employment in July. The making of felt hats began a seasonal recovery.

All the metal industries felt the effects of the market. The paper mills reported shut downs and the reduced shipment of goods affected the paper box factories. Industries like the furniture and piano factories, where the reaction to business conditions is always slighter than among the metals, show a smaller but significant curtailment of operations. Shoes and fur goods started up a little but the other leather industries are still reducing forces.

The slowing-up of business for the year has, it is estimated, caused the release of over 200,000 workers who were on the factory payrolls of this state in July a year ago.

Of the 55 separate divisions into which the factories of the state are classified only eight had as many workers as in July, 1923. They were all making either building materials or food products. Some plants scattered throughout the other industries are keeping up or even raising their level of employment. These are special cases that always occur during periods of dull business. There is nothing in the present situation, however, to indicate a return to conditions like those of three years ago.

Last July factory employment was close to the high point of the 1922-1923 expansion. At that time the textile industries began to show the first signs of a break but the making of building materials and railroad equipment were at record heights and served to pull employment up in many related lines. In November the peak of railroad equipment manufacture had passed. After March, the other metals, especially those affected by the automobile industry, started downward, accompanied by further declines in clothing and textiles. At the present time, of the unusually favorable factors in effect last year, only the great activity in building work remains.

On the other hand, a year ago, when industrial operations appeared to be on a good basis, it was pointed out that the decline in the price of farm products might be expected, through its effect on consumption, to influence manufacturing activity. The European situation was also considered to be unsatisfactory. At the present time, when the immediate situation is less favorable, these two long-time influences at present appear to be more favorable than they were a year ago.

The Ulster district felt the chief effect of the business situation this month. Over one quarter of the employees in the textile mills were let go between the 15th of June and the 15th of July. This means that more than 3,000 employees in this one industry group in one section lost their jobs at a time when few if any plants are taking on new workers. More workers were let go, also, in the metal and wood-working plants. As in the textile, all the branches of these industries felt the effects of market conditions. The canneries hired many employees for the busy season, but jobs in canneries do not relieve the employment situation for metal and textile workers.

The Rochester district benefits more than any other large industrial area from the impetus of seasonal work in the canneries. This, together with a good recovery in the shoe factories, enabled this district to hold the gain it made in June. There were losses running throughout the metal, machinery, and glassware industries but they were just about equal to the increases in other lines.

The Buffalo section experienced another reaction in July. The automobile industry accounted for lower employment in plants making castings, stamped ware and other metal products and the slowing up of shoe factories let off workers here and even the packing and other food establishments were less busy.

In the Capitol district there was less work in the railroad equipment factories but an increase in car and locomotive repair work provided some additional opportunities for employment. A slight decline in the important machinery and electrical apparatus industry and a further re-

Colonial Barnstorming Trip Ends
With Defeat at Amsterdam by Johnson's Colored Stars—Three Local Pitchers Hit for 19 Strikes.

It was the opposition instead of the Colonials that went on a hitting rampage on Friday afternoon at Amsterdam and as a result Chappie Johnson's Stars scored a 15 to 5 win over the Kingston club after sending three Colonial pitchers for nineteen hits.

Hummer started for the Schrickmen and lasted two innings. Rube Forsythe then took up the burden and managed to last until the sixth inning. Harris, who had pitched the day before at North Adams, finished the game for the Colonials and was the only one of the three pitchers who managed to keep up with the Stars.

The Colonials found Cooper, who did the hurling for the Amsterdam club, for twelve hits which would have been enough to win the game had the Colonial pitchers been in any kind of shape. Deegan and Raskin both came through with three hits, while Flynn and McCue both managed to get two apiece.

Ridgley led the batters on Chappie Johnson's club with four hits out of five times at bat to his credit while Ewing, the hard hitting catcher on the colored club, made one of the longest four base blows that Amsterdam fans have ever seen. Ewing's blow came in the fifth inning with the bases loaded and was responsible for Forsythe's hurried exit from the game.

In the first inning hits by Ridgley, Johnson, Ewing and Smith gave the Stars a two run lead. In the second inning a three run Perry and Cooper got these industrials to result two mo-

Youth and Grace in Woman's Dress

Leading Designers Aim to Please, Knowing Wishes of All Ages.

For madame! Having a love of the beautiful and a discriminating taste in dress, and being fortunate in the possession of a long purse, she will be as badly off as Flora McFlinty, with nothing to wear—unless she has succeeded in retaining that slim silhouette. Under the autocratic rule of designers, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times, an ideal has been created and a standard established, and life, as to clothes, is simple for the woman who meets the requirements, though otherwise it is a problem requiring devoted attention and involving many difficulties. It is as if the whole world of fashion makers had conspired against the woman who is smart, yet not necesarily slim and curveless. The most tempting models are for the boyish figure, and to place them further beyond the reach of any other, the original French models are confined to sizes larger than "32." The saleswoman usually displays this to the timid, almost apologetic customer, as being "the very largest size we carry." Many a woman knows the moral courage it requires to suggest that it might be altered to fit her or to continue the search for something larger.

This applies, of course, to the woman who longs to possess the original and wishes to avoid, if possible, the irksome experience of being fitted. She of the youthful figure, with fresh skin and hair of natural shade, still finds that, unless she has kept her figure and avoided within bounds, she is "hard to fit," and, being a plump 40, is distressed to find that the type of frock that was charming on a "perfect 36" looks quite different on her. It is a sad disillusionment and warranted to ruin the best dispositions.

To be unsympathetic is handicapped enough, but to have arrived at the period when one must acknowledge or be reminded that moyen-age styles are the correct thing for one is to realize, they say, the first gray in the otherwise bright sky of a merry world. For the woman of fashion who has put off this somber day by being industrious in trailing, the way is still pleasant and the best and most beautiful things created by Parisian artists are for her as long as she desires them. Hair can be camouflaged, dog collars are for male necklines, angel sleeves soften sharp angles—and many another trick may be turned. But when moyen-age adds silver to the hair and pounds to the figure there is cause for despair and the question of dress becomes acutely important.

French Women Reticent.
It is something a French woman never admits except to herself. What- ever is becoming she will wear, and she critically views herself and de- clares that illusion and effect come of emphasis of her points of charm and of subordinating, negating, as it were, the marks of the years and the evidences of too much enjoyment of ease. She knows the value of having hair perfectly coiffed and hands and feet immaculately clad. She realizes, sometimes with a bit of a jolt, that a roundish back is betraying her age as plainly as if she told it aloud, and immediately she stands like a sentinel, with perfectly flat back and lifted chin that fairly shout "youth!"

These points are called to the attention of wistful clients by the designers who go into the psychology of dress, and it is they who take the age out of moyen-age in their designing. Some of the older artists, Worth, Paquin, Drecoll, Redfern—master hands in the art of governing women—seemed to have a special sense in this important service, and their clients looked always so well and so becomingly dressed that the evidence of age was critically softened and dignified, but there had not the standards of today to meet.

Judged by her silhouette—so it be- da rigorous—any woman in these times may wear anything she chooses, and usually she is successful, for Ameri- can women are graduated in taste and style. For them the best designers of Europe and America have worked out models that will please the fancy and comfort the heart by keeping youth and grace in the figure.

The fashionable woman of a genera- tion ago was unaware of the archi- tecture that reconstructs the figure to the present model. To summarize, she wore stays, and corset, and bones. These belong to the Dark Ages, as far as concerns the modern woman, which greatly simplifies the task of the modiste who helps the middle-aged woman to express taste and style in her appearance.

The waistline dropped to the point of the hip was the life-saving innova- tion. To that is drawn the long V-shaped neck, the gracefully tapered shawl collar, the wide cascading cape, the jacket. The skirt, in slight drapery, is caught usually with a motif of flow- ers or jeweled ornament, or a garni- ture that trails in lengthwise line to the bottom of the skirt.

One-Piece Gown, Real Test.

The one-piece gown, the real test, has many variants, the essential of which is the coat dress. This, in light or heavy materials, is becoming to every figure of any proportions. The gown proper is made in a straight model, with a panel, like a full-length waistcoat, whether plain and fitted, or plaited and held by a belt or girdle. The idea guides the fashioning hand in some of the latest French evening gowns of lace and tulle over alps of satin and metal tissue, and is charm- ing in a subtle sort of way.

The tunic, which may be three- quarters, seven-eighths or full length, is one of the most comfortable and en- tirely satisfactory models suitable for older women. The silk jersey tunic for daytime and the beaded tunic for evening wear were brought out several years ago, isolated, single and "ex- treme" styles, that took at once. They concealed so much, softened so much and were so altogether slenderizing that they have been developed and di- versified into every type of tunic pos- sible to the designer.

Worth, Beer, Jenny, Molyneux, Cheruit are now giving us one-piece gowns. Jenny, Alice, Bernard, Louise- boulanger, Premet, Doeillet, Drecoll, to mention special and representative designers, present interesting variants of the tunic, and Polret, Lanvin, Jeanne Halle, Doucet, Patou are among those who illustrate the saving grace of a slight lift of the skirt in draped lines.

No preceding season has offered as much inducement in material for slender modeling and graceful drapery. The soft silks, crepes, voiles, marqui- sette, and all the shades of weaving in sheer fabrics respond to the artistic designs cannily established for the clientele to whom it matters so vitally.

Shown in Knitted Wear.

All these are successfully illustrated in the knitted goods—light, gossamer woolsens, silk jersey, roshanara crepe sponge, pongee and alpaca.

Plaits—the thin of narrow plaiting entire—long, slender panels, and rows of buttons outlining the frock from top to bottom, accentuate length and have a slenderizing effect and are somehow younger and more chic than the plainer models. Some of the most exclusive shops in New York are offering these semi-tailleur suits in white, white-and-black or collars in stripes, and sharply marked bars. One that is liked by ultra-fashionable women is an informal outfit—skirt of white jersey, plaited; overblouse of crepe, embroide- red in colored crests, and three- quarter sweater coat of the jersey, with deep shawl collar, large pockets, and narrow belt of glaze kid.

The overblouse, touching the knee, is the answer to many difficulties in the summer outfit for moyen-age. It is soft, supple, yet straight, dropping with its own weight, and is worn un- belted. The skirt beneath, whether it is plain, fluted or flaring, adds grace to the figure and is flattering to feet and ankles.

A fussy old woman inquired in a druggist's the price of brimstone. Upon being informed, she replied that she knew where she could get it cheaper. "If it's cheapness you want," replied the clerk, "and I wasn't afraid of get- ting fired, I could soon tell you where you could get it for nothing!"

"TIGER"

Many people, ignorant of the traits of animals, have wondered over the actions of one Tiger, erstwhile the White House cat. It will be remembered that some weeks ago that intelligent and loyal animal escaped from the President's residence, where he had been sent as a gift. The fact was broadcasted by radio and Tiger was recaptured and returned, but soon ran away again and is now in his old home or on his way there.

Had Tiger been a dog he would have remained in his new home and enjoyed the luxury with which he was surrounded, gnawing delicious bones, disporting himself on the magnificent lawn and receiving complacently the petting which his high position guaranteed him. But, being a high grade of cat, these considerations did not appeal to him. The poet Calverley, famous for his deep insight into such matters, thus explained the difference between these animals:

Men prize the heartless hound who quills
Drooped his native land,
Who wags a mercenary tail and licks
A tyrant's hand.
The real time out they prize not, that if Ever compelled to roam,
Still flows, when let out of the bag, precipi-tately home.

LANGLEY'S VINDICATION.

Although convicted in the Federal courts some months ago of conspiracy to violate the Volstead law, Congressman Langley of Kentucky has now won a re-nomination in the Republican primaries after a campaign of "vindication." It is suggested that "local pride" explains this "vindication," and the editor taking this view illustrates it as follows: "If there is any group that keeps an open mind on the question of basic moral principles it is the tribe or the herd when it is sitting in judgment on one of its own members. Mayors have been elected to office precisely on the ground that the candidate had got into trouble with the law while doing something for a friend. Cabinet officials who have retired under a cloud are the recipients of public testimonials from their communities. A grand jury or an investigating committee may publish its findings in full. That does not prevent the toastmaster from expressing the fervent admiration and affection of everybody present for the man who, etc. What is a mere court conviction between friends?"

This is not without point, yet it is highly probable that the chief reason for the "vindication" of Langley is to be found in popular sympathy with violation of the Volstead law, which is widely regarded as only a statutory and not a moral offense. There are great numbers of people, not merely in Kentucky but in the country generally, who look upon such violation not only with tolerance but with a certain degree of respect. It is this widespread attitude, rather than the supposed prevalence of ungovernable thirst, that renders enforcement so difficult an undertaking in most communities.

JOSEPH CONRAD

Among the uninformed or undiscerning there was an impression that Robert Louis Stevenson was merely a writer of boys' books. There is a somewhat similar impression of Joseph Conrad in the same quarters because he was known to write "sea tales." Conrad, who served for years as a sea captain, did write tales of the sea and of far shores, but they are like no other romances nominally of the same class. His books contain much romantic and picturesque incident, but the incident is altogether secondary to its connection with human psychology and the development of human character. His literary identification with the sea was inevitable, particularly the sea of the Far East, but his vast knowledge and wealth of reminiscence served only as the basis for an intuitive interpretation of human psychology. For this native Pole who became a master of English style had also a masterly comprehension of human motive and impulse.

The difference is that he was a genius. It is popularly supposed that a genius can achieve swiftly and without serious effort, having no need of that "infinite capacity for taking pains" which has been called the hall mark of genius. On the contrary, Conrad himself has confessed that he achieved only by great labor. "I have often risen," he is quoted, "from my desk at two o'clock in the morning, after a long night's labor, more exhausted than after by hardest day's work on ship-board, and I have done everything there—performed all the severe forms of physical labor that are part of the routine life aboard ship—to find that I had completed only a thousand words." The death of Joseph Conrad, master literary craftsman, has deprived English letters of a unique product which no one else can supply.

That Body of Yours

THE BROOK AND YOU.

I watched a little brook one day as it tumbled down over a small precipice.

The water churned itself into a mass of foam, seemed to circle first in one direction and then into another, as if undecided as to its proper destination, then moved along again on its way.

I couldn't help but think of how much it resembled the individual who had been under a severe strain, has had a serious illness, a shock of some kind. He flounders about in his life's affairs, knowing not which way to turn.

His whole mechanism, nervous and muscular, is in such a turmoil that it is incapable of functioning properly. The result is that he says and does things that are not like him, because of this shock, and the after turmoil.

His ordinary habits of life are likewise in such a muddle that his eating, his sleeping, his ordinary exercise, just walking only, are all askew.

As I watched the brook I noticed that some sticks, branches, and pieces of debris were helping to dam back the water, and kept it in small whirlpools, instead of letting it get along on its way.

I removed these obstructions, and immediately the waters burst away into the general stream.

You can thus see that after you have had a shock or illness, and are floundering around, that often there are little obstructions, physical and mental, that keep you for days, weeks, perhaps even months, from getting back to your normal self again.

These obstructions may be due to some physical cause. For instance when you are well and strong an infected tooth or tonsil may not affect you, because your resistive forces overcome the effects. When you have been ill or have suffered a shock these forces are weakened, perhaps paralyzed for the time being.

If something is "on your mind," is worrying you, it also can be the obstruction holding back your natural flow of health.

Look around, take hold of yourself, mentally and physically, and get the obstruction removed.

Fruit Crops in New York State

The condition of the four major crops in New York has dropped since July 1, according to the combined state and federal crop report for August issued from the New York state department of farms and markets. Many rainy days made proper control of scab, peach leaf curl and aphid very difficult. An unusually heavy "drop" of apples and peaches which had scarcely begun July 1 has taken place. Because of these unfavorable conditions, there is greater probability than usual that the prospects may change during the rest of the season.

Apples are given a condition of 53 per cent of a full crop in the August report with a forecast of total production of 25,950,000 bushels compared with 24,000,000 bushels last year. The commercial crop is now placed at 4,412,000 barrels compared with 3,900,000 barrels last year. Conditions outside the main apple belts in western New York and the Hudson valley are fairly good. In general, it appears that such summer, fall and early winter varieties as Yellow Transparent, Dutchess, King and Wealthy promise fairly good crops. The later varieties—Greenings, McIntosh and Rome Beauty—are fair, though the Twenty Ounce is light. Baldwins, the most important winter variety, are generally poor. So many apples have been injured by scab and aphid that less than the usual proportion of Grade A fruit is to be expected.

The commercial crop of the United States is forecast at 23,383,000 barrels compared with 24,403,000 barrels last year. The New England states, Virginia, Arkansas and Colorado appear to have larger crops than last year. The prospects are substantially less than last year in Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Idaho, Washington and Oregon, while California shows a slight falling off.

The pear crop promises very light production in western New York, with irregular conditions in the Hudson valley. The August forecast of 1,900,000 bushels compared with the production of 1,000,000 bushels last year may change materially. The United States crop forecast of 17,574,000 bushels is about the same as last year, but below the crop of 1922.

The early varieties of peaches promise well, with Elberta light. The crop is more or less spotted. Western New York prospects are relatively better than those in any part of the Hudson valley north of Orange county. The forecast is now 2,301,000 bushels compared with 1,700,000 bushels last year. The Georgia crop, which has been very large, is still being marketed. New Jersey will have 2,539,000 bushels compared with 2,642,000 last year. Michigan's crop of 532,000 bushels is less than one-half of last year's crop, while California will have only four-fifths as many, with a total of 12,497,000 bushels.

Grapes in the Chautauque-Erie section have made unusual recovery from the damage done by the severe June storms. The crop is generally from two to three weeks late, and will need very favorable weather in the central New York section for maturing. In Niagara county and in the Hudson valley the prospects are good. The state forecast is for 74,000 tons compared with 62,000 last year. California's crop now appears to be about the same as last year.

Dr. Swinburne, Specialist

Wants to Know.

Are You Enjoying Life?
Do you know what it means to have Good Health?

If you are suffering from any ailment you should secure the most effective treatment to control the trouble before it may develop into serious or chronic trouble. Perhaps you have just neglected to consult your doctor, and if such is the case, you had better do this at once. Or, it may be, you have been treating for some time, and your family doctor has failed to cure your trouble. Then you should see a specialist without delay, for then you can often obtain much better results.

The reason the family doctor does not succeed in obscure or chronic cases, is because his entire time is required in treating the acute and serious ailments, and the patient who is able to come to the office, is often put off by telling him not to worry and given a pill or powder to relieve present distress, because he cannot give such cases the study and attention needed. Hence the need of a specialist and when the family physician fails to cure you should secure some other treatment without delay, and even if your regular doctor should advise you not to take any new treatment, there is no reason for you to heed his advice, when he had failed to cure your trouble. If you want health you cannot get the results by taking the same treatment that had failed to cure.

Many cases have obtained relief by using treatment given by the New York Specialist, even after failure of every other method.

Read these reports:

Ulcers of Stomach Cured Without Surgery.

Mr. Charles Pickett of 632 Terrace Place, Schenectady, N. Y., was sick for five years from stomach trouble, until he was unable to work. After a number of doctors failed to help him, he had X-ray pictures taken and a leading physician told him he had ulcers of the stomach and nothing would help but operation. Seeing the notice of the New York Specialist coming to Schenectady, he decided to see him before going under the knife. Dr. Swinburne examined him and gave him his opinion that his treatment would help him without the need of surgery. In one month he became much better and in three months was restored to health and able to work every day.

Marvelous Results in Chronic Cases.

Mrs. J. Van Derwall, Castleton, N. Y., was an invalid confined to her bed for over two years. Doctors had claimed she had Bright's disease, nervous disorders and heart trouble, and she seemed no hope for her case and she despaired of ever being cured. Hearing of Dr. Swinburne, she decided to have him see her, with the result that the doctor assured her that by treating her stomach and improving her digestion and assimilation, she could expect to obtain good health again.

With one month's treatment, she was able to sit up at a breakfast table, and in three months was able to go to the city to see the doctor and do shopping and after little more than a year of treatment, she was enjoying good health and able to attend to her housework and social duties.

Diabetes Case Obtains Wonderful Results.

Mrs. Davidson from a nearby town in New York State, had suffered from diabetes and her doctor offered no hope for a cure. She became gradually in a worse condition from the development of weakness of the heart, and she could hardly get around at all without any additional charges; that for 20 days succeeding two per cent was collected. That if any tax shall remain uncollected at the expiration of the time last mentioned, I shall give to the person or persons against whom such taxes remain charged a written or printed notice requiring said person or persons to pay such taxes within thirty days thereafter with five per cent fees thereon and one dollar extra for each notice.

Are you really protected
or are you just insured?

You may say, "I'm insured" and feel mighty comfortable about it, but are you dead certain that in case of a loss you will find that you were protected? In other words, do your several insurance policies dovetail so as to cover the risks against which you need protection?

Don't put this thought by as improbable—it has happened time and again that a confident "I'm insured" has been changed to a dismal "I thought I was fully insured" when a loss has revealed a serious gap in the protection which a man thought he had thrown around his business or property.

And, unless you are absolutely certain that all your policies are concurrent you, too, may suffer a loss.

FIX WAR COST AT $0 BILLIONS GOLD

Three Times Cost of United States Government From 1791 to 1913.

New York—The cost of the World War was $20,000,000,000 gold, according to calculations made by the Bankers Trust company, in which all expenditures were reduced to a gold basis. Figured in the currencies of the belligerent nations—conversion at varying degrees by inflation caused by the issuance of paper money and expanded bank credits in financing the war—the cost converted into dollars at par of the various currencies was $208,000,000,000.

To arrive at a uniform basis of statement, we have divided the figure of each nation for each year of the war by the wholesale price index of that nation," says the Bankers Trust. "Thus we have obtained a statement for each nation in terms of 1913 prices. The sum of these figures, $208,000,000,000, may be called the gold cost of the war."

The Bankers Trust company has just published a book covering the financing of the war, to which it has given the title of "Inter-Ally Debits." What $208,000,000,000 gold really means is suggested by comparing the valuation of $20,000,000,000, roughly, put on all the railroads of the United States.

Eighty billion dollars would reproduce all of the railway mileage of the world and there would still be over $20,000,000,000 to spare for some other use—enough to build and equip another railway system as great as that of the United States.

British National Wealth.

In 1914 English economists estimated the wealth of the people of Great Britain to be about $70,000,000,000. All of the property of every kind in England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, the railways, the docks, the shipping, the great factories, the coal, tin and iron mines, in short, all tangible property of every sort and kind, is represented by this $70,000,000,000, and yet the war cost $208,000,000,000 more than this, and $10,000,000,000 is equivalent to the entire tangible wealth of Australia and New Zealand.

Another comparison—the prewar combined wealth of France and Italy was just under $90,000,000,000. The war caused the unprofitable consumption of goods of a value in gold equivalent to all of the property of every kind of these two great nations of nearly $80,000,000,000; an amount equivalent to the accumulations of centuries wasted in four and one-half years of strife.

It is hard to realize, but it is a fact, that $20,000,000,000 is 60 per cent more than the total cost of government in Great Britain for the two and a quarter centuries which elapsed from the Revolution of 1688 to the beginning of the great war. It cost to meet the expenses of Great Britain for two and a quarter centuries, in round figures, $33,000,000,000.

Other Big Wars.

During this long period of 226 years there were eight major wars, fought at great expense—expense so great that the thinking people of the times were appalled thereby. There were the wars of William III, costing around $100,000,000, the Wars of Anne, cost ing over $200,000,000. The Spanish War of 1701 and the War of the Austrian Succession piled up another $200,000,000 or more. The Seven Years' war cost over $600,000,000. Then came the American war, costing over $200,000,000, and finally the Great French war, lasting from 1792 to 1815, costing around $8,000,000,000. Later on, in the '30s, the Crimean war cost some $200,000,000 and finally the Boer war, which lasted from 1899 to 1902, cost nearly $1,500,000,000. Besides these major wars there were many costly military expeditions, the growing cost of civil government and the ever-present burden of the public debt, and yet this total expenditure of this long period was only about five-eighths of the gold cost of the great war.

Coming home for a final comparison, we find that the expenses of the United States government from its foundation in 1791 through the year 1913, a period of a century and a quarter, were $24,500,000,000—less than one-third of the gold cost of the great war, and yet, during this long period, we fought England in 1812, Mexico in the '40s, the very destructive Civil War in the '60s, also at various times many Indian campaigns, to say nothing of the Spanish war in the '90s.

The expenses of civil government were steadily growing. Our position roll called for heavy expenditures. To the current expenses of government we could add the Louisiana Purchase, the acquisition of Alaska, the purchase of the Virgin Islands, what we paid Spain for the Philippines and the cost of constructing the Panama canal and even then the figure would be far under a third of the total gold cost of the great war.

Oldest Juniper Tree

Logan, Utah—A giant juniper tree discovered recently in Logan canyon near here is estimated by Dr. Henry Cowles of the University of Chicago to be between 3,500 and 4,000 years old, perhaps the oldest living thing except the redwood trees of California. The tree is 27 1/2 feet in circumference.

Long Pedigrees

Royalty, as in the Hatfield chart, which traces Queen Elizabeth's descent from Adam, is not alone in claiming long pedigrees. On the tomb of a former town clerk of Burton-on-Trent that worthy is described as thirty-seventh in descent from Alfred the Great. Again, a distinguished French family, the Magons (an Admiral Magon was killed at Trafalgar) shows a pedigree deriving from Mago, the brother of Hannibal.

An Italian nobleman, the Marchese Porro, traces his line back to Pons, the Indian monarch who fought against Alexander the Great, while the Samson family who own estates near Lyons claim that their descent is from the strong man of the Bible, and in support of the claim bear on their coat-of-arms the broken column of a temple.—Manchester Guardian.

Real "Robinson Crusoe"

Alexander Selkirk was an adventurer, born in Largo, Scotland, in 1676. He was a skillful seaman and made several voyages to the South Sea, in one of which, having quarreled with his commander, he was put ashore on the island of Juan Fernandez with a few supplies. Here he lived alone for four years and four months, when he was rescued by Capt. Woodes Rogers. He returned to England in 1711, and is said to have given his papers to Defoe, who, from them, wrote the story of "Robinson Crusoe." Selkirk died on the ship Weymouth in 1723.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

REGIONAL BILLET FOR WAR ORPHANS

With the dedication recently of the American Legion's children's billet at Otter Lake, Mich., the Legion has gotten under way with a nation-wide program of child welfare. Specifically, the Legion intends to care for all the children whose fathers were killed in action or who died as a result of service in the American forces during the World War.

There are at present, according to experts, 5,000 orphans of war who are being denied childhood privileges because their fathers died in service. By the creation of regional billets the Legion intends to care for all of these. The plan outlined by the national child welfare committee of the Legion allows for expansion to meet the requirements ten years hence, when the peak load will be reached. $5,000 of them.

The billet at Otter Lake, Mich., is typical of the Legion's method of handling this important phase of service work. It is neither an institution nor an orphanage. It approximates a home as far as it is humanly possible.

Instead of having one big dormitory, the way most institutions are run, the Legion has small cottages of from four to six rooms. Nine children at the most are housed in one building, where they are looked after by a house mother. The children dress as other children, with no semblance of uniformity. They attend public school, leaving in the morning, taking their lunch, and returning about five o'clock in time to play until supper time.

The Otter Lake billet, which is the first regional billet, now cares for 28 children, with three houses built and ground broken for two more. These children are of every extraction—Hungarian, Polish, French, Italian and the like. Many of them came to the billet in extremely poor health, emaciated and undernourished.

Overlooking Otter Lake, one of the prettiest of Michigan's thousand lakes, the billet is ideal for health purposes and, under the guidance of Mrs. Eva Ingerson, supervising mother, the food prepared is based on body-building needs. Dr. O. Johnson, the superintendent, looks after the health of the children and not one case of serious illness has been reported since the billet got under way.

The need for more room to handle the fatherless children is manifested by the constant requests for permission to send children to the billet. A waiting list ample in size has convinced the Legionnaires that they need more space. As fast as the money is available such expansion is taking place.

The Michigan billet was first begun as an activity of the Michigan department of the Legion, with help by the legislature. However, when the national organization of the Legion went into the problem, Michigan graciously turned over her billet to the national body.

The second child billet is now under way at Independence, Kans. John R. Quinn, national commander of the Legion, recently dedicated a 400-acre tract of land, where the second series of cottages will be erected. Kansas raised $100,000 to insure completion of the project by a state-wide drive for funds. The tract of land was the gift of Daniel Dabney, whose two sons were killed in action while serving with the American forces in France.

Not only does the Legion care for children in regional billets, but it also cares for them in childless families. Following precedents established by social workers, the Legion seeks about for ex-service men who have no families and who wish to rear one of the waifs of war, and allows them to adopt one. The Legion takes exceptional care in investigating circumstances so that the child will get the tender care rightfully due.

In other instances the Legion has found that the mother does not wish to be separated from her child. In such an event the Legion furnishes cash support.

The need for such welfare work is proved when it is known that the government does not compensate a widow sufficiently to insure adequate support. A widow with no children receives but $25 a month. With one child, she gets $35, and $6 for each additional child. As a result, it is necessary for her to work to support herself, and if her child is very young she must place it in a nursery. If the child is but a few years of age the Legion has found that it runs wild and, in many cases, the environment is such that it becomes a gamine.

The child welfare activities of the Legion are the most important, next to the care of the disabled, on the Legion's program of national service.

Legion Men Will Protest

Protests against granting citizenship to men convicted of various serious offenses will be made in future by the American Legion of Belmont county, Ohio. This course was decided on after papers were granted to several such men there. A committee was appointed to investigate the character of applicants for citizenship.

SUBMARINE YARNS IN BOOK BY SCOUT

The water gurgles with an unearthly gurgle overhead. Motors are humming aft. A chain rattles in the control room.

Within the tapering compartments of the gray-walled United States submarine all else is quiet. A strapping youth, seated on a three-legged stool, bends over a pad. And he writes away at wonder yarns for the kids who like real adventure on wave or in field or in air. Engaged in the most hazardous duty in the United States navy—service on a submarine—he doesn't think of that as adventure, but calls on his imagination for thrills.

As he writes, his thoughts turn homeward to the children in the quiet homes across the sea. He thinks no more of his submarine which is running along submerged, scouting for the enemy lurking beneath the waves somewhere off the Irish coast.

Over in the mud of the trenches near Belcheper, a young officer scans the lines of the enemy. He bears with honor on the battlefields of France a famous American fighting name.

Later the young chap in the submarine will publish a book. And the colonel will write a preface for it. For the lad in the submarine is Henry Beston, the colonel is Theodore Roosevelt.

The book, written by one faithful member of the American Legion and prefaced by the man who has been called the "Father of the American Legion," is ranked by Dr. John Tignor, United States commissioner of education, as one of the 20 best books for real American children.

"I knew that our wide-awake youngsters were sick of lollypop 'storybooks for kiddies' and bed-time tales," declared Beston who went down to the sea to do battle with the U-boat. "I felt that they were anxious for wonder tales told in the spirit of the sailor's yarns."

"I must have guessed right because Theodore Roosevelt encouraged me to keep on."

"You bet I am a Legionnaire," Comrade Beston continued. "I was a charter member of my post. I've been an officer in it. I believe in the Legion. It is the service man's best friend and is a growing force for good in American life."

Officials in Charge of National Convention

The American Legion from national headquarters Indianapolis, announces that information relative to the 1924 national convention of the American Legion at St. Paul, Minn., September 15 to 19, can be secured by communicating with the following committee at St. Paul: General chairman, Judge Royal A. All Claims Must Be on File Before January 1

Claims for all former service persons suffering from tuberculosis, neuro-psychiatric diseases, amoebic dysentery and encephalitis lethargica must be filed with the veterans' bureau prior to January 1, 1925, for pre-sumptive service connection. Announcement to this effect has just been made by Winston B. Miller, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion, who states that claims should be filed through Legion posts or departments or with any office of the veterans' bureau.

Iowa Legion Men Set Pace for Many Others

Husbands outnumber bachelors nearly three to one in the Iowa department of the American Legion, according to statistics recently gathered by the Iowa Legionnaire. Sixty-five and four-tenths per cent of the Legionnaires own automobiles, and those few who haven't automobiles to get there in have radios that enable them to know what it's all about anyway. Eight thousand and more of them own radios. Enrolled in the Iowa department of the Legion are at least 50 per cent of all ex-service men in the state.

WITH U. S. WORLD FLIERS IN BLEAK ORKNEYS.

Here are the first pictures of the U. S. Army found the world fliers as they bade good bye to the inhabitants of Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, before starting their flight to Iceland. Lieutenant Erik Nelson became separated from his companions and reached Iceland, but Lieutenants Smith and Wade were forced by fog to return. They started again next day, Lieutenant Smith getting through, but Lieutenant Wade was forced down at sea off the Faroe Islands and his plane was wrecked. Before leaving Lieutenant Harding, one of the observers, took a final swig of Scotch, something he won't get when he reaches the United States.

Big Lips for Beauty Is Idea of Africans

The women of the Lake Tchad region of Central Africa vie with one another as to who can possess the longest lips.

When girls are about four or five years old their future husbands pierce a hole in the center of the upper and lower lips with a big thorn or a knife. Through these holes he places thick straws or reeds.

In a few weeks, when the girl has become used to the punctures, wooden pegs the size of a lead pencil are pushed into the holes, says London Tit-Bits. Three months later, when the lips have become accustomed to the distension, larger pegs are inserted. At twenty-five a fashionable matron of the Sarnas-Djengas tribe is likely to have disks seven inches wide in the lower lip and five inches wide in the upper. Up to this time the disks stick straight out like birds' bills, but now they drop down from their weight.

After this larger disks are inserted about once a year. It is a matter of social pride with a woman to go on increasing her lips as long as possible.

Try This New Hairdress Style To Give That Bobbed Effect

By MADAME LOUISE.

Nationally known authority on hairdressing. Trustee of National Hairdressers' Assn.; executive board member of Chicago organization.

If you're slender, why emphasize the long line that stretches from the chin up to the top of the head? Many women do this, wearing their hair as shown in the upper left-hand picture, and detracting from the beautiful rounded contour of the face.

Now it's easy enough to find a style of hairdressing that gives a better, more youthful effect. A very pretty mode is shown here. Part the hair as in the upper right-hand picture. Now twist the lower half all around to about five inches up from the nape of the neck and pin into a flat, narrow arrangement. Draw down the top hair, as in the last picture, and tuck it under, fastening at the nape of the neck in a neat, smooth arrangement. The hair plays in place very snugly this way and is much more becoming to a delicate-featured face.

THE CALF

"Moo, moo," said Mrs. Cow. "My child is so beautiful."

The calf looked at his mother and his eyes seemed to say:

"Am I, really, mother, dear? Well, that is very pleasant news. I am glad that you are proud of me."

"Oh, so proud of you, my dear," said Mrs. Cow. "Moo, moo, you have no idea."

"Of course, you are no longer my baby. You are growing to be pretty big now."

"I haven't the sorrow that mothers must have when they see their babies grow out of their cunning long clothes and have to wear short ones."

"I have seen the mother in the farmhouse, and she really seemed quite sad at first when her baby was no longer wearing long clothes."

"She said: 'He isn't a baby any more.' But then she seemed to cheer up right away again, for she seemed to be so proud of her baby in the short clothes, too!"

"My Child is So Beautiful."

"You never wore long clothes, my love. That is where a calf baby is different from other babies."

"I didn't think you would like long clothes, and so I never made you wear any."

"I can't imagine just what a calf baby would look like in long dresses."

"I think it would be most uncomfortable. Of course, if you only had two legs it wouldn't be quite so awkward."

"But to have four legs and long dresses would be too much. Oh, yes, that wouldn't do at all."

"Then, too, it is not the cow custom for the calves to wear long dresses when they are babies."

"They never have, and I am not going to start a fashion which would be very foolish for cows to adopt."

"Still, you have outgrown many of your little baby ways. You are stronger and bigger and you are getting to be really big."

"Before long you will be really grownup. Oh, yes, I will have to see you grow out of baby calfhood into a big, big animal!"

"You will be splendid looking. You will be fine. You will be strong and healthy and you will be much admired."

"But you won't be my baby any more."

The calf nestled down near his mother and his mother put her head on his dear calf body.

"I will be able to tell you of the farmer and his wife and of his children and of how good they are to us."

"I will be able to tell you of the good meadow food we have and of the beautiful grazing there is to be found around here."

"I will be able to watch over you while you sleep and in my cow fashion I will sing you a little cow lullaby."

"Some never know that, either aloud or to herself, many a cow mother sings this lullaby to her child."

"I will sing it to you now, before you grow too big for a lullaby, for you are almost too old for it now. Almost—but not quite!"

So Mrs. Cow sang the lullaby to her calf, and this was the way it went:

Moo, moo, my little baby,
Moo, moo, my own calf child,
Moo, moo, you're mother's darling,
So gentle as yet, not the least bit wild.

Moo, moo, my own little baby,
Moo, moo, my dear, sweet young calf,
I never could tell you of all my love,
No, I never could tell you even of half!

ICY DRINKS FOR HOT DAYS

For the thirsty persons on a long outing by auto the vacuum bottle is the best of friends. Fill it with cold water, lemonade or iced tea, in fact anything you enjoy drinking. Milk, if flavored with a chocolate syrup, a little strong coffee, caramel or fruit syrups, malted milk combined with chocolate, if that is liked, makes a very wholesome and sustaining beverage. The following suggestions will be found easy to keep in the vacuum bottle.

To prepare the chocolate syrup which is so well liked and which may be added to so many drinks, take four ounces of unsweetened chocolate, or seven-eighths of a cupful of cocoa, one and three-fourths cupfuls of sugar, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt, and one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water. Melt the chocolate over water, add the sugar, salt and the boiling water gradually, stirring and cooking until smooth. Boil five minutes, turn into a jar and keep in a cool place.

Chocolate Milk Shake.—In a tall glass put two tablespoonfuls of finely shaved ice and three tablespoonfuls of chocolate syrup. Add slowly two-thirds of a cupful of milk, stirring until smooth. Top with a spoonful of ice cream or whipped cream.

Leftover cocoa may be iced and served with a spoonful of whipped cream, making a tasty refreshing and nourishing drink. Adding a sprig of mint, a grating of orange or when the hot drink is made a small piece of stick cinnamon to the cocoa or chocolate, or two tablespoonfuls of pineapple syrup is a delicious addition to a chocolate drink. Chocolate ice cream soda is a delicious and cooling concoction if one has a siphon. Put three tablespoonfuls of chocolate syrup in a tall glass. Add one small ball of vanilla ice cream and fill the glass with soda water drawn from a siphon. Stir and serve at once. When siphoning, take the syrup and add the soda just before serving.

JOANNA SOUTHCOAT

Was born in 1750, of parents in very humble circumstances. When about 40 she assumed the pretensions of a prophetess and declared herself to be the woman mentioned in the 12th chapter of Revelation. She asserted that having received a divine appointment to be the mother of the Messiah. She was a very ignorant woman and gathered about her thousands of followers equally ignorant. Among them, however, were several clergymen, who believed in her. By some she was styled the "holy Joanna."

At the end of 1814, she died, which put an end to her pretensions, but her disciples still believed in her. They would not believe that she was really dead, and after she was finally buried were firm in their belief that she would soon come back to life.

ROBERT G. INGERSOLL.

Robert G. Ingersoll was born at Dresden, N. Y., ninety-one years ago today, and was the first popular exponent of agnosticism in America. The word "agnostic," by the way, was coined by Prof. Huxley to express the religious status of those who, professing, "do not know" anything as to the existence or non-existence of a God. The label was accepted by a large proportion of the greatest scientists, but it remained for Ingersoll, one of the most eloquent of American orators, to attempt to popularize the doctrine. While his contemporary, Charles Bradlaugh, born in the same year, was preaching atheism to the English masses, Ingersoll contented himself with the more scientific position. An able lawyer, and possessed of those qualities which carry a man far in politics, he disregarded all personal considerations to spend the best years of his life in warring on Christianity and all supernatural religions.

In addition to his numerous lectures he engaged in notable controversies in the North American Review with such men as Gladstone, Dr. Henry H. Field and Cardinal Manning.

He neither affirmed nor denied immortality, but admitted that "in the night of death hope sees a star, and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing."

WIRE.

The first great improvement in the manufacture of wire was made by Ichabod Washburn, an American inventor and manufacturer, who was born 126 years ago today, August 11, 1798. Washburn revolutionized the manufacture of wire, which had previously been a slow and tedious process. The invention of wire is ascribed to Rudolph of Nuremberg about five centuries ago, although the world's first wire mills were established at Nuremberg in 1563, about half a century after the announcement of Rudolph's process.

The first wire mill in England was established at Mortlake in 1665. The drawing of wire has been greatly perfected in recent years, owing to the widespread demand, and the varieties of wire made run into the hundreds. The wire production of the United States now exceeds that of the remainder of the world combined. Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio and Illinois leading in the industry.

Officers of County Legion

Ulster County American Legion in Fifth Annual Convention Saturday at Saugerties Elects Officers and Delegates to State Convention.

Saturday afternoon the fifth annual convention of the Ulster County American Legion was held at Lasher's Hall, Saugerties, at which time officers were elected for the year and delegates to the state convention to be held at Alexandria Bay were named. The convention selected Ellenville as the next place of meeting.

Prior to the convention a dinner was served to all the delegates by the Auxiliary to Lamoureux-Hackett Post of Saugerties.

The convention was called to order with Colonel Frank L. Meagher, county commander, presiding. About 40 delegates were present from Saugerties, Kingston, Ellenville and the Phoenixia Post.

Election of officers for the ensuing year was the first item of business taken up and resulted in the following members of the legion being named: F. Clyde Gardner of Saugerties, county commander; Dr. Jack Blumberg of Ellenville, vice commander; Herman I. DuBois of Kingston, adjutant; Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., of Kingston, treasurer; Thomas F. Coughlin of Kingston, service officer; Clarence T. Voss of Phoenixia, organizer; the Rev. Thomas J. Dunne of Ellenville, chaplain; Edward J. Luedtke of Kingston, state committeeman.

The convention voted to go on record as being in favor of "National Defense Day" on September 12. A vote was also taken placing the convention on record as being in favor of the enactment of legislation at the next session of the state legislature to pay a state bonus to the next of kin of all deceased veterans. Such a bill was presented at the last session and was passed by the assembly but in the rush of closing business the senate did not vote upon the matter and as a result next of kin of all deceased veterans are at present unable to secure the state bonus.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to the retiring county officers for having placed the Ulster County American Legion in its present splendid condition. Ulster county to date has 800 paid up members in the American Legion, having 11 per cent more members at the present time than at this time a year ago and only 86 behind the banner year of 1920.

The following were elected delegates to the state convention, which will be held at Alexandria Bay, on September 3, 4 and 5: Herman I. DuBois, Edwin Ashby, Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., and Thomas F. Coughlin, of Kingston; F. Clyde Gardner and Frank Hildebrandt of Saugerties, and Clarence A. Hoornbeek of Ellenville.

The alternates are as follows: James R. Howard, Edward J. Luedtke, Robert J. Hudler and James F. Doyle of Kingston; Messrs. Robinson and Bridgeman of Saugerties, and Edwin Hoerner of Ellenville.

The delegates from Kingston Post to the convention were: Herman I. DuBois, Edwin Ashby, Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., Eugene B. Carey, Thomas F. Coughlin, James R. Howard, Edward Luedtke, Robert J. Hudler, James F. Doyle, Frank L. Meagher, George Davis, John W. Kreuger, Albert Reese, R. Earl Halsey, Frank Phillips, Charles T. Dixon and Stanley J. Matthews.

RYE AND VETCH WILL SAVE SPRING PASTURE.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 11.—A mixture of rye and vetch, according to Prof. E. L. Worthen, of the state college here, is in all probability the best winter cover crop for most New York farms. Rye alone, he claims, is inferior to the mixture, since the vetch, like other legumes, utilizes atmospheric nitrogen and makes the air help out on the farmer's fertilizer bill. The rye helps support the vetch and the seed is much less expensive.

Seeding, he says, should be done any time now, but preferably completed by early September. Under favorable conditions a good catch can be secured in corn at the time of the last cultivation, and best results can be expected where this combination cover crop follows peas, potatoes or almost any crop which is removed by early September.

Then in the spring, Prof. Worthen says, the crop can be either plowed under or fed green, but if plowed under it should not be more than a foot or eighteen inches high, as, of course, would be the case if it were to be followed by an early spring crop.

If the crop is to be fed, two ways of using it are suggested. It can be pastured or cut green and fed daily to the livestock. If the field is fenced, pasturing is generally more practical. In either case, it gives the stock good green feed early in the season while allowing the regular pasture to get a start.

Famous Doctor Sees End of Sickness.

The possibility of eliminating disease from civilized countries was the theme of the address before the British Association for the Advancement of Science, by Dr. David C. Bruce, chairman of the governing board of the Lister Institute of Preventative Medicine, who succeeded in controlling parasitic maladies in the British Army during the World War. The end of sickness, he declared, is not so far off, if medical science continues its present advance, and if the public will heed its advice.

VARIETIES IN KINGSTON.

Variety is the order of nature. It is one of the great joys of the world. There is much variety in Kingston.

At one store here lemon phosphate—so fine a hot day—is 5 cents. At the next store it costs 10 cents. Why is this thus?

"Is it hot enough for you?" Good chance for variety (relief) just then. Remark as follows, "Cold weather." The weather is hottest when thinking about it.

Kings-ton is one thing that makes this city attractive. It makes it heavy with interest.

Kingston has many charming ladies. They have charmed me—an old man and a stranger—by saying, "Would you like a drink of water?" I have never refused.

A musical man here has composed a new song. It was suggested by so many people telling him, "We have no piano." The name of the new song is "I Have No Piano to Play." It is comic.

The Y. M. C. A. is a credit to the city. The appearance of the building, the pleasant, convenient arrangement of the rooms and the kindly, courteous people in charge are superior to those in some cities bigger than Kingston.

If you "go swimming" and don't know how, better not get deep in the water.

The difference between Rhinecliff and Kingston is the difference between a big brother and a little one.

Some people have contempt for a "peddler." But when he has what they want then they are all smiles. Then they would be willing to call him a salesman.

HUDSON RIVER SCOUT.

Blame Aftermath for Scenes Such as This

"We love to have our friends drop in," was what Mammy speeded each party guest with.

"Always glad to see you here at any time," was Papa's benediction.

"Come soon again," murmured Sister. Then the door closed on the last to go.

Papa began taking off his coat and untying his collar and unbuckling his vest right there on the spot, yawning as if his head would come away at the top. "Oh-h-h, ah-h-h," gaped he, "and we've got to get up at the same time tomorrow morning!"

Sister had drifted into the kitchen and was consuming what was left of the cake. At that moment Mammy bustled in, her party dress changed, an apron covering her from head to heels, and fire in her eye. "What are you doing there?" she snapped at Sister. "Don't you know I am saving that cake for tomorrow's dinner? Well, if you eat it now, you can't have it then—that's all!"

But Sister was too weary to retort. "What did you think of Lily's dress?" asked she.

"Come, we've got to do the dishes," called Mammy. "Don't stand there dreaming; get a towel. Why, I thought she looked like a barber's pole in those stripes. But thank goodness this is over—we've paid everybody up all at once. No more entertaining for us for a year! Watch out, now; don't drop that plate."

At this juncture Papa came in in his bathrobe. "What happened to the rest of the cigarettes?" asked he. "I left a whole box unopened on the table."

"I don't know," replied Sister, "unless Eddie took them. I saw him lighting his cigarette case."

"Just like him," snapped Mammy. "It makes me sick to be taken advantage of," chimed in Papa. "Well, next time the party's at Eddie's house," suggested Sister. "How do we get that way? Through asthma!" (Copyright, 1924, by the Shamrock Syndicate.)

When a fellow gets grouchy and it hurts him to smile, that fellow should work in the garden awhile.

Anyone can get ahead, if he has a head—and uses it.

A rather plump young lady, quite out of breath, rushed up to the window and bought a ticket for Chattanooga. Between puffs she asked the agent:

"Have I much of a wait."

"Well," he replied, "I should say about a hundred and ninety."

The little things count. Where would a political machine be except for the nuts?

Back talk rarely sends a man ahead.

Beneath This stone lies William Raines Mud on the hill He had No chains.

A natural-born enthusiast is a man who can read either political platform and get excited.

A small town is where you can take the correct census of the population at any fire.

Some men are born great, some achieve greatness and others put up a successful bluff.

There is nothing so enticing to a kid as a stripped Ford, and nothing is more worthless.

A fork in the road is often used for a spoon.

You can't always tell. The smartest girls in school spend five seasons learning to swim.

The Jazz Baby.

The mother crooned an old-time song, The baby shed a tear; "Oh, can that old stuff," begged the child, "And jazz it, mother dear."

It isn't so difficult to get your picture in the papers if you can jump seven feet high in tennis togs.

Overstocked.

A tenant farmer was very poor. He had to work hard to keep his ten daughters dressed in the latest vogue. His efforts to marry them off had been in vain. One day in his weekly paper he saw this furniture advertisement. "You furnish the girl. We furnish the home." He immediately answered it as follows: "I can furnish ten homes with girls. How much furniture have you got?"

You never could convince the average small boy that teachers are not paid enough.

The electric button won't do any work until it is pushed. Why be a human button?

CREAM WHIPPING TO BE DEMONSTRATED

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Factors which affect the successful whipping of cream will be demonstrated as a special feature of the dairy exhibit of the Experiment Station at the State Fair in Syracuse the week of September 8, according to an announcement made public today by station officials. The station exhibit will be part of a joint display of the station, the Department of Farms and Markets at Albany and the College of Agriculture at Ithaca, in which an effort will be made to show the State Fair crowds what the various state agencies are doing for the dairy industry of New York and the importance of dairying in this state. Many other features are planned in addition to the exhibits from the local institutions.

How To Make Cream Whip.

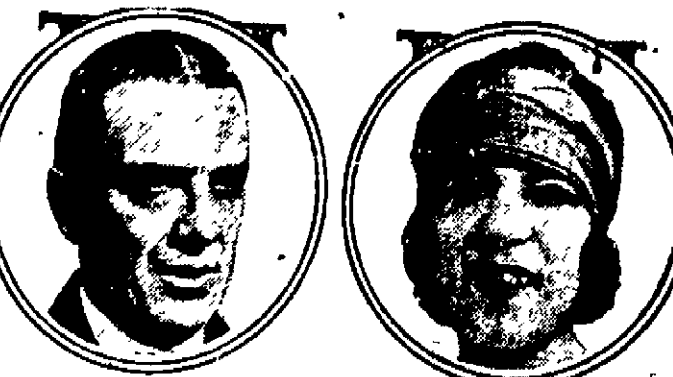

Low temperatures and a high percentage of fat are the chief factors which contribute to the successful whipping of cream, say the station dairy specialists. Holding cream at low temperatures for several hours will improve the whipping quality of the product, even if the cream is not particularly rich in fat.

Cream containing 30 per cent fat and cooled to 40 to 50 degrees and held for 24 hours is in prime condition for whipping, it is said. Thinner cream will whip well if held at a low temperature sufficiently long. Pasteurization seems to reduce the whipping quality of cream, but cooling and aging will overcome this effect to a large extent.

Land Reclaimed From Sea

Owen D. Young, unofficial American representative on the Inter-Allied Reparations Committee, has definitely declined the post of Agent his successor be named in advance. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, whose sickness kept her out of the Olympic games, declared in Paris she would return to the game as soon as her physicians permitted. Eugene Stack, youthful postal messenger of East Orange, N. J., who recently killed John J. Mayron and looted a $50,000 mail robbery, in which Stack was wounded twice, has been ordered to report in person to Postmaster-General New in Washington. Stack is now in Atlantic Highlands, recuperating, a fund of $300 having been raised for him by fellow postal employees. Captain Paxton-Hibbern, of the Officers Reserve Corps, a New Yorker famous for his alleged Communist principles, charges he is being kept away from the officers' training camp at Madison Barracks, N. Y., because of his reported friendship for the Soviet Government.

MOTHER SHIP FOR U. S. S. SHENANDOAH.

Above is shown an aerial view of the U. S. S. "Patoka," airplane tender and mother ship to the U. S. S. Shenandoah, the Navy's huge Zeppelin. She is the first vessel of her type to be equipped with a mooring mast to which the Shenandoah can be lashed. The Patoka will be attached to the battle fleet, towing the Shenandoah by her "nose" until time comes for the dirigible to cast off and seek the "enemy" fleets. She is also equipped to make all needed repairs. Successful moorings of the Shenandoah to the Patoka already have been made at Narragansett Pier, R. I.

TO DISTRIBUTE LARGER TROUT IN ADIRONDACKS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 11.—The conservation commission is establishing five new field stations in the Adirondack section for the leasing of brook and lake trout, to make possible the distribution of larger fish in Adirondack lakes and streams.

These field stations will take the trout as fry from the state's hatcheries and rear them to large fingerlings after which they will be distributed in nearby waters.

One of these stations already has been built at Chateaugay, another will be located on Lake Champlain and the others will be established in the Adirondacks as fast as suitable locations can be found.

A field station has been in operation at Summitville, Sullivan county, for the Catskill section and has proved very satisfactory in taking trout fry from various hatcheries of the conservation commission rearing them to large size fingerlings and distributing them throughout the streams in the Catskills.

Gasoline Blaze
On Ferry Street

At 6 o'clock Sunday evening an alarm from box 24 called the firemen to Ferry street where a hot and spectacular fire was burning at the gasoline and oil station of William Hiltbrant. A car bearing a New Jersey license was filling up with gas at the station when the hose from the pump was dropped, spilling gasoline over the roadway and under the door of the garage. It immediately ignited from a lighted cigarette butt or some other reason and in a moment there was a hot fire going. The blaze scorched the front of the building and the office but the damage was small.

When the gasoline ignited the driver of the car pulled away.

The loss is not covered by insurance.

As usual, a large number of automobilists rushed to the scene, hampering the work of the firemen in responding to the alarm.

Origin of the Lyre,

as Legend Tells It

Tradition and mythology tell us that Hermes, messenger and herald of the gods, was walking along the banks of the Nile after it had overflowed and subsided, when he struck his foot against a heavy object. Looking down, he found it to be an old tortoise shell, with the dried sinews still stretched across it. He picked it up, like any other curious boy, and upon touching the sinews was amazed to hear musical sounds. Then, so the story runs, he sat down and constructed the first lyre! And tortoise shell to this day is the favored decoration of stringed instruments.

Colonials Again Beat Windsors

North Adams Team Loses Third Straight to Schrickmen Sunday. Score 9 to 6—Thirty-two Hits Were Made During Struggle.

The Windsors of North Adams again met defeat at the hands of the Schrickmen on Sunday at the Fair Grounds by a 9 to 6 count. The game was replete with safeties, a total of 32 hits being gathered in for the day's work. The Colonials knocked out two less safe blows than the visitors, the latter collecting a total of 17.

A great help in putting the game in the Colonials' bat bag was three home runs by Robins, McCue and Coyle.

Gene Hummer was on the mound for the home club and pitched good ball in every inning except the fifth, when seven hits netted the visitors five runs. In the fourth frame the Windsor team made its first run.

In the opening inning the Colonials scored six runs, when hits were made by Dugan, Deegan and McCue, Coyle, Flynn and a circuit clout by Jack Robins. In the second and fourth innings runs were added. In the fifth a home run by Coyle made the locals' total nine.

McCue was the hitting star of the day, collecting a total of four out of five trips to the plate.

TOM GIBBONS SAYS HE IS WILLING TO FIGHT DEMPSEY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 11.—Tom Gibbons, American light-heavyweight, who knocked out Jack Bloomfield on Saturday, told International News Service this afternoon he was willing to fight Jack Dempsey in London.

Sporting circles were greatly surprised over a cablegram from New York saying that Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, had been approached by an "English syndicate" with an offer for a fight between the Champion and Gibbons in London.

"It is the first I heard of it," exclaimed Gibbons, "but I am willing."

Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons said he would gladly consider such an offer but "does not want a reputation of Shelby."

It is understood here that Dempsey who has been playing in moving pictures in Los Angeles will shortly go to New York to give earnest consideration to his next bout.

BIG LEAGUE CONTEST WILL START AT 5:45

Cleveland, O., Aug. 11.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, fighting his first engagement in 11 months, will meet Pat Moran, New Orleans lightweight, in a 10 round no decision bout here tonight. The fight will be at catch-weights.

Little Doris, visiting in the country, had been stung by a bee. She didn't seem to mind the pain so much, but the child had a sensitive nature and she felt hurt. Between her aches she said: "I don't see what he did it for, mamma, I hadn't done a thing to him."

STIFF TEST TONIGHT FOR JACK RENAU

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 11.—Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, will be put to the acid test in a fifteen round bout tonight with Bartley Madden, who never has been knocked off his feet.

Madden's latest test was stalling the limit with Harry Wills. Should Renault succeed where the negro failed, he will challenge the winner of the Firpo-Wills fight.

Renault, formerly Jack Dempsey's sparring partner, has won all of his bouts since he was defeated by the late Billy Mike two years ago. The Canadian's victims since that time number approximately fifty.

Renault was the favorite in the betting 5 to 5.

Busy Week For Colonials

The Colonials will be engaged in a number of home games this week. On Tuesday the D. and H. Generals will be the attraction. This up-state team is one of the best attractions in semi-pro ball and has always been a drawing card here.

On Wednesday at the Fair Grounds the Boston Nationals will be here to play the Schrickmen. This is the second major league team to play at the local diamond this season. In the Pittsburgh National game the big leaguers were extended to ten innings. In the game Wednesday, another all-out contest is also expected. Just who will do the hurling for the locals is not known. Jack Warhop is on the list of available for the task.

On Friday, the Chippie Johnson All-Stars will play here. These same teams will meet at Margaretville on Saturday.
